FALSE TESTIMONY.

A Perjured Affidavit Procured by Counsel for Murderer Holmes—Great Sensation.

The Offence Brought Home to the Advocate in the Clearest Possible Manner.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 18.—William A. Shoemaker, senior counsel for the defence of the convicted murderer H. H. Holmes, is charged with manufacturing evidence for the defence by bribing a woman who knew nothing of the case to swear in Holmes' favor. To-day was fixed for argument of the motion for a new trial and Judge Arnold was joined by Judges Thayer and Wilson. Mr. Shoemaker asked that argument be postponed, as since the verdict he had come into possession of new information and additional clues of vital importance to the case, which would result in Holmes' acquittal.

Subsequent to the trial, he continued, they obtained information of a person who knew Holmes while he lived at 1336 Callow Hill, from whom they procured an affidavit. This was made by Blanche A. Hannigan, and in substance is that in August, 1894, she kept a cigar store at 1239 Callow Hill street, and knew Pitzel as Perry. On August 19, when he was in the store, she told him that she would have to leave the store to visit a dying friend, whereupon Pitzel spoke of the uncertainties of life, saying he had more troubles than anyone would suppose; that he would not care if it was he who was dying instead of her friend. He spoke of many troubles and added: "The end would soon come, as he could not stand it much longer." His actions and words tended to show thoughts of suicide.

In presenting the affidavit, Mr. Shoemaker said Mrs. Hannigan would have come forward with this testimony before but she disliked notoriety, and had been out of the city for some time. Besides this new testimony, Mr. Shoemaker went on that there were many other clues to be run down, some of which came to his knowledge as late as last Saturday.

District Attorney Graham asked that Mrs. Hannigan be called to the stand. Mr. Rotan replied that he was unable to find Mrs. Hannigan, and that the affidavit had been procured by John Sweeiker, detective. Counsel would not permit her testimony until he had an opportunity to examine her privately to sift the truth of her statements. Mr. Shoemaker said that the affidavit had been written by himself at the direction of Mrs. Hannigan.

Upon this, Mr. Graham arose, and said that during the early part of the recent trial he had received information that efforts had been made to secure false testimony by bribery. Later he learned that these efforts were being prosecuted to the end. Thereupon he sent for the person thus employed to furnish evidence and she was in court at the present time. "I will produce her, show that she was employed by Mr. Shoemaker; that she was taken to his office and questioned; that she said she knew nothing about the case; that the attorney then told her that was all right; that she was induced upon payment of $20, to sign the affidavit which had been already prepared."

Mr. Shoemaker grew pallid, the judges' eyes opened wider, and it was some time before the buzz in the court room was stilled. Then Mr. Rotan and Mr. Shoemaker made an attempt to be heard, but the court ordered that the witness be first heard.

Detective Geyer said that during the trial he was called upon by John Sweeiker, who said Mr. Shoemaker had asked him to procure a woman who lived around 13th and Callow Hill or Vine street, who would swear to certain facts. Next day Sweeiker again called and Shoemaker showed him a type-written affidavit. This was even before the woman had been looked for. Mr. Geyer submitted the matter to the district attorney and on his advice, after the trial, Geyer procured the woman. He introduced her to Sweeiker who in turn took her to Shoemaker. After several interviews with him she signed the affidavit and received the money in ten dollar bills, which he marked with her initials for identification.

The supposed Mrs. Hannigan, who said her name was Margaret Reah, took the stand and corroborated this story. Producing the money, she declared that Shoemaker neither read nor told her of the contents of the affidavit. She signed in absolute ignorance. The statement made in court this morning by Shoemaker that she had dictated it to him was false in toto.

Shoemaker here arose excitedly and cried: "I did not say so." The district attorney declared he had a copy of the affidavit in his office before the woman had been found.

John Sweeiker corroborated the preceding witness, saying he was first employed by Shoemaker to get the woman on November 4, the second day of the trial. Four or five days afterwards Mr. Shoemaker dictated the affidavit to his stenographer. This was before the woman had been procured. After Sweeiker had been given the affidavit, he turned it over to Detective Geyer, who said he would procure a woman. Sweeiker emphatically repeated, "Blanche Hannigan was not known and had not yet been procured when the affidavit was prepared."

Shoemaker, his face livid with excitement, finally exclaimed: "I ask if I will have an opportunity to refute these charges?"

"At the proper time, sir, and in the proper place," interrupted Judge Thayer.

With tears in his eyes Mr. Shoemaker protested:

"I am sure I can show my innocence of anything reflecting upon me as a member of the bar. This is a trap, a damnable trap, set by the district attorney to destroy a member of the bar. I appeal to the court to grant me time to defend myself. I appeal to the members of the press," turning to the reporters seated near by, "to withhold all that has been said against me in this court until I have had an opportunity to clear myself."

Judge Thayer again cautioned the attorney. "Under the present condition of affairs, sir, I think you will find safety in silence," he said impressively.

All this time the murderer Holmes smiled with cynical amusement.

THE SULTAN ALARMED.

Assembling of Foreign Fleets Said to Have Brought the Commander of the Faithful to His Senses.

LONDON, Nov. 18.—The Marquis of Salisbury has received assurances that the Sultan has dispatched commissioners to Asia Minor to put in force the reforms insisted upon by the powers, and that, beyond the assembling of the foreign fleet off Salonica, the powers will take no further steps at present. It is understood that the assembling of the fleets at Salonica bay is having a good effect, and that the Sultan has determined to make earnest efforts to put a stop to bloodshed in Asia Minor.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 18.—The British fleet here is being still further reinforced. The Sultan is said to be alarmed to the verge of insanity at the assembling of the foreign fleets at Salonica Bay. Not only has he sent messages to the Valls of disturbed districts ordering them to suppress the disorders but a number of special commissioners have been dispatched to various parts of Asia Minor armed with the highest authority to quell any revolutionary outbreaks.

Further massacres are reported from Sivas, and there is an unconfirmed story that 4,000 Armenians have been massacred at Gurrun. Although the reports of this wholesale killing are not confirmed, the Turkish officials admit that the Kurds made two attacks upon the Armenians of that locality with considerable loss of life. The Porte, it is said, has ordered a special inquiry into the massacre of Christians at Alexandretta, where three hundred Turkish troops are said to have looked on while the killing took place.

MUNICIPAL POLITICS.

Rev. Ralph W. Trotter Preaches on Its Ethics—The Voter's Obligations.

On Sunday evening Rev. Ralph W. Trotter, pastor of Calvary Baptist church, preached an eloquent sermon on "The ethics of municipal politics."

He took for his text Habakkuk ii, 12: "Woe to him that buildeth a town with blood and establisheth a city by iniquity."

The speaker opened by showing the relation between the pulpit and politics, and the obligation of it to combat evil wherever it be found. He wished to put himself in right relation to his audience and the people of Victoria. Those who had come there to hear the executive officers scorched or to hear him indulge in personalities had come to the wrong church. There were certain things it would be well to keep in mind in the discussion of this question: (1) His purpose was to discuss principles not persons; (2) That the people had placed each member comprising the executive board there by a majority of votes; (3) That it was just possible the people had not given them the moral and public support which the votes pledged to them. (4) That in the last analysis all attacks upon the council reflected upon the electorate.

His right to speak on this subject had been questioned, but he claimed the right to speak on any subject in the broad universe of thought, because he was a man and a British subject. His taxes were paid with no ministerial exemptions, and he represented a denomination which had never received state aid to carry on its work of evangelization or education. It was but little use to preach twice a week when it was next to impossible for a young man to live a clean life because of his conditions and environment.

Coming closer to his theme he said there were two things requisite in an executive officer, namely, character and ability—character because of its example. The mayor ought to be the highest honor this city can confer on any of her sons. It ought to be the ambition of the boys to fill this office. Now if Victoria can elect a man of unclean life and shady record to her chief position of trust, then the development of sterling character becomes a thing of indifference concern to the youth of this community. They should be men of character, because of the special temptations to which they are subjected, and the speaker defined these as financial and moral.

Besides character there was need of ability, but he would put character first and essential; shrewdness might be used for the vilest of purposes. He would take character with very ordinary executive ability in preference to shrewdness of the keenest sort without it. He did not believe that crime had a majority of brain but character had.

The preacher then brought home to the people the obligations which rested on them. Before the last Monday in December and the first Monday in January, men of character and ability had a duty to perform, righteousness would have a voice in both nomination and election. Every one who has a vote should use it. It is a God given trust and neglect on the part of any one to use the franchise may be blasting the eternal prospects of every citizen in the community. Men of character and ability should be willing to run for office and should be willing to be beaten. God was calling to the men in this city to be financially crucified for the redemption of Victoria. Christ was under no more obligation to become a sacrifice of men than men are. Further, people should be willing to sustain the men they put in office 365 days in the year, 24 hours out of every day, 60 minutes out of every hour and 60 seconds of every minute.

The Copyright Question to Come Before the Privy Council on Friday.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)
OTTAWA, Nov. 18.—Sir C. H. Tupper and Hon. Mr. Oulmet as a sub-committee of the Privy council will hear Messrs. Hall Caine and Daly on the copyright question next Friday. Bodies interested may also be represented.

A hundred men of the 43rd battalion, Princess Louise Dragoon, and the field battery left unawares for Lowe township yesterday, armed, and their presence has had a most salutary effect on the recalcitrant residents. This fact, coupled with the intimidation that the cost of the military would have to be paid for by them, led the kickers to-day almost to tumble over each other, so great was their anxiety to pay their taxes. They have, moreover, undertaken to organize a township council and given a guarantee of good behaviour in future. The troops will return here on Wednesday.

WINNIPEG WIRINGS.

Lieut.-Governor Dewdney Entertained at Dinner—Mackintosh's Explanations—Shooting of Constable Colebrooke.

WINNIPEG, Nov. 18.—(Special)—Lieut.-Governor Dewdney was entertained at Government House, Regina, on Saturday night by a large number of friends. His Honor made a speech expressing his thanks for their regards and good-will. Lieut.-Governor Mackintosh, who followed, took occasion to refer to a recent attack made upon him by a certain portion of the community in the Northwest. He said there had been some misunderstandings, but these were of such a nature as might easily be removed. The cause of friction was not completely under his control nor was he responsible for it, although quite prepared to take his share of any burden that had to be carried.

Recently a Prince Albert paper stated that Constable Dickson, who allowed the Indian who shot Sergeant Colebrooke to escape, was compelled to dig Colebrooke's grave. Commissioner Herchmer, of the mounted police, writes to the Free Press denying this and stating that Dickson merely assisted with the other prisoners whose duty it was to do such work.

NEWFOUNDLAND NOTES.

Smugglers Confident of Defeating the Authorities—Schooner Victor Missing.

St. JOHN'S, Nfld., Nov. 18.—(Special)—In the matter of the appeals of persons convicted on the charges of smuggling already taken to the Supreme court, counsel for the smugglers are raising a number of novel legal points, tending to undermine the case for the crown, and bets are being freely made that all of the indictments will be washed or the convictions will amount to little or nothing. Three actions have already been taken by smugglers in the penitentiary against the governor of the institution, for refusing to supply them with copies of the warrant under which it is claimed they were convicted.

The schooner Victor, with a crew of 12 persons, left Labrador on October 31. She has not yet arrived here, so that it is feared she has been lost with all hands on board.

PLEASANT REALITY.

Trade and Agriculture in the Canadian Northwest—Mr. Clouston's Trip.

A Reuter's telegram from Montreal states: "Mr. Clouston, general manager of the Bank of Montreal, who has just returned from a tour of inspection on the Pacific coast, states that he had an interview with the agents of the Bank in the West, and from information furnished by them, he is convinced that matters have touched bottom, and that better times will come all over the Northwest and British Columbia. He found that, in addition to the large crops gathered in Manitoba and the Northwest, great success had attended cattle raising, and that good results had also been obtained from the mines in Kootenay and Cariboo country. Mr. Clouston is of opinion that the days of hopes, fears and uncertainties are past, and that the country is now face to face with pleasant reality."—Bristol, Eng., Western Daily Press.

At St. Paul's church, Esquimalt, yesterday morning Rev. C. Ennor Sharp united in marriage Mr. Hugh Logan and Miss Susan A. Henwood, eldest daughter of Mr. Isaac Henwood, both of the young people being former residents of Portsmouth, England, but now of Victoria West. The ceremony was witnessed by a large and select company of friends, and was full of cheer. The bride was given away by her father, and was attended by Miss Logan and Miss Henwood, the groom's sister and her own; Mr. Pover, of the Royal Naval Yard, did the honors for his friend the groom. After the ceremony, which was celebrated at 10:30, a wedding breakfast was served at the residence of the bride's parents, and later in the day Mr. and Mrs. Logan left on their wedding tour, which will take them to the orange groves of California.

NANAIMO.

NANAIMO, Nov. 18.—The prospects of the mercantile club do not appear to be as promising as they were at first sight.

While working in Protection shaft on Saturday last Elijah Baray was injured by falling coal. The injuries are not of a serious nature, and it is expected that he will shortly resume work.

A lodge of the Daughters of Rebekah has been formed at Wellington.

Leiser & Hamburger have appointed E. C. C. Johnson, of Victoria, as head salesman of their shoe department.

The Wellington Methodist Sunday school is arranging for a grand entertainment, to be given in the church on Christmas eve.

A. Dick, inspector of mines, states that the front wall of the coke ovens at Union is nearly completed, and that a large quantity of fire clay bricks has been ordered from the Old Country.

ASHCROFT.

(From the B. C. Mining Journal.)

It is reported that a valuable mine of asbestos has been discovered about 60 miles south of Ashcroft.

About 250 feet of new siding is now being built by the C.P.R. on this side of the railroad. The B. C. X. Co. will build a warehouse north of Harvey, Bailey & Co.'s, for the accommodation of their freight receipts.

The Ashcroft-Lillooet telegraph line has been connected with the Ashcroft end. The Lillooet end lacks about a mile of wire, which will be connected Monday or Tuesday.

The poles are set clear through and only the short spans mentioned is to be connected to give telegraphic connection with Lillooet.

The railroad work in the vicinity of Ashcroft has gradually been drawing to a close till one gang, doing rock work below here, is the only one left, and the work may be said to be over for this year.

The forwarding of over 130,000 pounds of freight North the past week shows that the proportions the freight handling at Ashcroft has grown. As a matter of fact from 400,000 to 500,000 pounds a month pass over the big road. A large slice of it goes to ranches and stockmen up country, but the mining interests absorb a great deal.

James Ker, of Montreal, who has been employed on the Horsey mine the past summer reports the mine as shut down for the season and that a cleanup is being made which will realize $7,000 or $8,000, but it will not be complete. This will bring the output of the mine up to about $19,000 or $20,000 for the present year, and an additional cleanup of $6,000 for last season would aggregate $55,000 or $56,000 as the total output of the mine.

The running expenses of the mine are about $7,000 a month since its equipment, so that enough has been taken out to pay for one year's work on the mine. When it is considered that only 60 or 70 days' piling all told gave the above output mining men will agree that the Horsey is a good producer.

E. Lapointe, the Vancouver cattle buyer, shipped Wednesday night three carloads of cattle numbering 60 head and a carload of sheep numbering 196 head. The cattle were in fine condition, while as for the sheep Mr. Lapointe declared that no finer lot of sheep were ever seen in Vancouver.

Sixty Short Horn Durham bulls were recently purchased in Ontario and are now on their way to British Columbia. Nearly all of them are for the B. C. Cattle Co., but ten are for Mr. Hewitt Bostock. Those for the cattle company will be wintered at the Perry ranch and in the spring will be distributed among the various ranches of the company.

NEW DENVER.

(From the Ledger.)

Applications for certificates of improvements are being applied for by the Goodenough, Amerlan Boy, Jim Fair and Twin Lakes.

One of the most important schemes in the history of Trail Creek camp is now on foot. James F. Wardner and Mr. Eckhart, who started for San Francisco yesterday, are the leading spirits in this new scheme. The proposition is nothing more nor less than the saving of the tailings from the concentrator. Under the present system of treating ore at least 25 per cent is lost. By means of the new process, which was invented by a California man, nearly all the tailings can be saved at a cost of six cents a ton. One man in California made $60,000 last year by means of the new process. Messrs. Wardner and Eckhart expect to get the San Francisco capitalists to put their new process in operation at Trail during the coming summer. Rumor, however, has it that the main object of the visit is to cause the entrance of some new California capital into the country and thus aid very materially in furthering the mining interests of the Northwest.

MIXED SCHOOLS.

TO THE EDITOR:—The Bishop of Columbia puts a very pertinent question in his letter to you that appeared in yesterday's COLONIST. After drawing attention to the boys who "may be seen and heard in Broad street and its neighborhood, every day in the week, before the evening paper is published," he inquires whether such lads as these attend the public schools, and, if so, whether they are proper companions for the girls of the city.

With respect to the first question, I may state that I have reason to believe that there is a considerable number of boys in this city who do not attend the public schools. Clause 66 of the School act provides for the compulsory attendance at some school of "every child, from the age of seven to twelve inclusive." Unless, then, the lads referred to in His Lordship's letter are not older than the maximum age affected by this above quoted compulsory clause, it is not quite fair to assume that they attend any public school. Granted, however, for the sake of argument, that some of these boys, whose misbehavior on the streets I will assume, do attend the public schools and that they are there being educated in the same room with girls, it does not follow that their example is pernicious.

The little Hydes of Broad street know better than to come in that character to school, where severe punishment or even expulsion would be sure to follow any offence against good morals. The Broad street Hydes are demure little Jekyls when they sit at their desks at school. A vicious boy in school is really not unlike a vicious man in a drawing-room. Each will be seen in his respective place disguised in a cloak of outward respectability. The vice is there, but it is not apparent, and consequently not hurtful. De non apparentibus et non existentibus eadem est ratio.

A vicious boy will, no doubt, exercise a baneful influence on other boys with whom he associates, without much fear of detection, for one boy will not readily inform on another. But girls are warned to report at once any rudeness on the part of the boys, and most girls will not hesitate to speak to their teachers or to their parents if they have any complaint to make. This the boy knows full well, and this makes him cautious for his own sake. And may not the restraint that forces him in school to curb any evil propensity he may have tend to mould his character gradually into a better shape, and to make him a better boy?

There is only one more point in the Bishop's letter to which I should refer. His Lordship uses rather too strong a word when he writes of the boys as "companions" of the girls. I speak for the High school when I say that the communication between the sexes during school hours (and that is the only time for which I am officially responsible) amounts only to necessary civilities. But I see no signs of companionship between boys and girls. Boys are the companions of boys, and girls of girls.

In conclusion I would state that, during my experience in mixed schools of this province, no complaint has ever been made to me either by the girls under my charge or by their parents concerning the conduct of the boys. If the docket of our Police Magistrate were empty every morning it would be fair to argue from that fact that crime in this city did not exist. If our judges received the "customary white gloves" at every assize in the province, would doubts as to the morality of the population be tolerated? I contend that it is equally reasonable to suppose that, if no complaints as to the conduct of our pupils have ever been laid before me or my colleagues in the High school, the state of affairs there cannot be in a very unsatisfactory condition. And I would add that any one who can prove, by satisfactory evidence, misconduct on the part of scholars in our public schools and who withholds such information as he may possess from the board of school trustees, the educational authorities or the principals of the schools, incurs a grave responsibility; and I trust that the Bishop of Columbia, or anyone else who may hear evil reports of our schools, will ask his informant the following question: "Knowing all this, have you done your best, by making this statement to the proper authorities, to remedy the evil?"

EDWARD B. PAUL,
Principal of High School.

THE W. C. T. U. HOME.

TO THE EDITOR:—Will you kindly let me say a word or two through your columns to the charitably disposed on behalf of the W. C. T. U. Home of this city. As winter is approaching the needs of the Home are increasing; the stringency of the times makes it difficult for many who have ably contributed to its support—and others who would wish to do so—to continue financial aid. Doubtless, however, there are many ladies in the city who would be glad to contribute articles of clothing which have been laid aside, if they were aware that such could be utilized. The immediate needs of the Home are bedding, clothing (under and outer garments) and furnishings of any description, the worthy matron having a wonderful knack of remodeling and utilizing all sorts of things. Remnants of dry goods will be particularly acceptable. Friends wishing to assist the work of the Home by contributions will kindly send them to the Home, Cormorant street, or send word to Mrs. D. Spencer, president, when they can be called for. Any donations will be thankfully received. The institution is doing excellent work, there being more applications for admission at the present time than it is convenient to accommodate, while the object is one which must commend itself and should receive the hearty support of all who desire to help the unfortunate.

SPECIAL.

WHEN ALL OTHERS FAIL CONSULT

Doctor Sweany

RECOGNIZED BY THE MEDICAL FRATERNITY AS THE

LEADING AND MOST SUCCESSFUL SPECIALIST IN THE UNITED STATES.

THE friend and benefactor of suffering humanity, who for a number of years has had permanent offices at Seattle, where the sick and afflicted can receive treatment in the future, as they have in the past, from this noted philanthropist, whose fame is being spread from the Pacific to the Atlantic coast.

All are invited and no Suffering Human Being will be Turned Away.

THE POOR

who call at his offices Fridays are welcome to his treatment free of charge.

What is the Reason of Dr. Sweany's Success, and Why do Sick People of Every Station in Life Crowd His Office Daily?

BECAUSE

First of all he has succeeded in effecting a cure of diseases before which all others stood powerless; and second, he is not only a doctor, but a Christian and a Philanthropist. His fame has preceded him, and the honors he received at the leading Eastern hospitals, as well as in Europe, were the highest ever bestowed upon anybody. To-day his treatment is unsurpassed by any, and he has testimonials to that effect from men of the highest standing in life, as well as from those of a lower station. It is a part of judgment and sense to seek Doctor Sweany first, instead of squandering time and money upon the uncertainties of patent medicines and quack specialists.

All Private Diseases of Men and Women Positively Cured in the Shortest Possible Time.

YOUNG, MIDDLE-AGED AND OLD MEN

If you are victims of youthful indiscretions and unnatural losses, if you are on the road to idiocy, insanity and the grave, if gloom and melancholy, morbid fear and unnatural lust pervade your mind, if you are despondent and down-hearted, if you have lost all energy and ambition, if you have an aversion to society, if your memory is failing and you are unfit for business or study, you should consult Dr. Sweany before it is too late. Get well and be a man.

DISEASES OF WOMEN.

If you are suffering from any of the diseases peculiar to your sex, you should call or write to Dr. Sweany, and he will tell you just what can be done for you. He has succeeded in building up the most shattered and broken-down constitutions, and will bring back to you that health, strength and beauty which every woman should possess.

You Can be Cured at Home.

There are thousands cured at home by correspondence. Write if you cannot come personally. The strictest secrecy is observed, so cast aside all feelings of shame to consult the Doctor. He is conversant in all modern languages.

Method of Treatment.

No poisonous or injurious mineral drugs used, but the medicines are all compounded from the very choicest, purest and most effective medicinal plants, roots and herbs in the whole range of nature, and while their effects are marked and immediately apparent, they do not build up temporarily, but effect permanent as well as perfect cures.

Office hours 9 to 12 a.m., 2 to 5 and 7 to 8 p.m. Address—

BRITAIN'S POLICY.

Lord Salisbury's Definition as Enunciated at the Lord Mayor's Banquet in London.

An Important Declaration—The Eastern Question—Mohammedan British Subjects.

At the recent Lord Mayor's banquet in London when Lord Salisbury rose to respond to the toast of "The Ministers," he touched briefly upon the result of the recent general election. The nation, he said, had spoken in terms that could not be mistaken. In reference to Home Rule he argued a period of peace as regards the integrity of the empire.

He also thought that the position of the House of Lords in the constitution had been more exactly defined by the elections, but just now the chief interest was in foreign affairs. He alluded to the Chinese-Japanese war, which, he said, had been followed with great interest, but those matters had now passed, and he trusted that peace had returned. He ventured to hope that whatever further occurred in the far East the public would not view it with unnecessary disturbance and alarm. He was much struck by the remarkable sensation that was produced by the false news that appeared a week or two ago, not because he thought the news of particular importance, but because the opinion it evoked in regard to it was a very noticeable phenomenon.

"Depend upon it," he said, "whatever may happen in that region, be it in the way of war or the way of commerce, we are equal to any competition that may be opposed to us, and may look with equal absolute tranquillity on the action of any persons who think to exclude us from that fertile and commercial region, or who imagine that if we are admitted they can best us in the markets of the world. (Cheers.) I should be sorry if we felt undue sensitiveness in the matter."

Lord Salisbury recalled the words of Lord Beaconsfield to the effect that there was room for everybody in Asia. Englishmen, he added, might employ their energies without needing to fear competitors.

THE TURKISH-ARMENIAN QUESTION.

Continuing, he said that there is another part of the world where matters are not so peaceful as he hoped they were in the Far East. He recalled the action in May last of the British, French and Russian ambassadors at Constantinople, and declared that it was designed to protect the Armenians, whose terrible and deplorable sufferings had moved the feelings of the British nation to their base. He paid tribute to the skill of the ambassadors, especially mentioning their leader, Sir Philip Currie, the British representative, whose judgment, skill and continuous labor, he said, had done much to avoid the most formidable dangers and to bring matters, at all events for a time, to a pacific phase.

The demands made on Turkey by the three powers had been substantially accepted by the Sultan. He had seen somewhere, under a great name, the assertion that the Sultan had won a great victory over the British. It could not be called a victory, Lord Salisbury declared, because he had given the British all they wanted. There had been an impression abroad that he himself had added a demand to those made in May, requiring something in the nature of an international commission.

THE DEMAND UPON TURKEY.

That was a great mistake. He had never added to the demands. He did offer as substitute demands, as a simpler way of obtaining the same end, that, if it was preferred, the present Mohammedan machinery should continue and be supervised by a mixed commission. The demands of the embassies were substantially that a proportional number of Christian employees should be added to the executive of the provinces containing a large number of Armenians. He did not contend that his proposal was the better. The Sultan preferred the other proposal and this one naturally fell to the ground. The reason that he preferred to be rid of the proposal to substitute Christian for Moslem officers was his great horror of the Powers appearing in these cases as partisans of one religion rather than another. That would be exceedingly dangerous.

He remarked that the Queen of Great Britain rules over more Mohammedans than the Sultan, and that the British government would have been neglecting its duty if it allowed itself to appear as a religious partisan in governing so vast an empire. The government had no other duty than to show absolute impartiality. Its desire was to do entire justice, so that Christians and Moslems should observe each other's rights and pursue their own industries in confidence and peace.

ROUND ABOUT THE QUESTION.

Continuing, Lord Salisbury said: "I should have been glad if our proposals could have divested the negotiations of any appearance of partiality, and could have assured our Moslem fellow subjects, who are among the most loyal and orderly subjects of the Queen, that they may rely on Imperial government's being absolutely impartial. With regard to the result of the negotiations, if the reforms are carried into effect they would give the Armenians every prospect that a nation could desire—prosperity, peace, justice and safety to life and property. But will they be carried out? If the Sultan can be persuaded to give justice to the Armenians it will not signify what the exact nature of the undertaking may be."

"If he will not heartily resolve to do justice to them the most ingenious constitution that can be framed will not avail to protect or assist the Armenians. Only through the Sultan can any real permanent blessings be conferred on his subjects. What if the Sultan is not persuaded? I am bound to say that the news reaching us from Constantinople does not give much cheerfulness in that respect."

ALL DEPENDS ON THE SULTAN.

"You will readily understand that I can only speak briefly on such a matter. It would be dangerous to express too many opinions that are on my lips, lest they injure the cause of peace and good order, which, above all things, I have at heart. But suppose the Sultan will not give these reforms, what is to follow?"

"The first answer I should give is that above all treaties, all combinations of the Powers, in the nature of things is Providence. God, if you please to put it so, has determined that persistent and constant misgovernment must lead the government which follows it to its doom, and while I readily admit that it is quite possible that the Sultan, if he likes, can govern with justice and can be persuaded he is not exempt

You may eat cheap food and not be seriously hurt by it, but you cannot take cheap medicine without positive injury. If you use any substitute for Ayer's Sarsaparilla, you do so at the peril of your health, perhaps of your life. Insist on having Ayer's, and no other."

any more than any other potentate from the law, that justice will bring the highest or on earth to ruin. It is not only the necessary action of the law of which I speak in which we may rely. There is the authority of the great Powers.

DANGER TO CHRISTENDOM.

"Turkey is in the remarkable position that she has now stood for half a century mainly because the Powers resolved that for the peace of Christendom it was necessary that she should stand. The danger is that if the Ottoman empire falls it would not be merely a danger that would threaten its territory. It would be the danger that the fire there it would spread to other nations, involving all that is most powerful and civilized in Europe in a dangerous conflict."

Lord Salisbury deprecates indulging in the illusion that some single power would escape the treaty and try to settle the question in its own manner. He believed that the powers were never more disposed than now to stand together by the European system they had themselves devised. Danger existed that the Sultan should imagine that under pressure of necessity the adhesion of the powers was such that no abuses in the Ottoman empire would ever receive punishment. That was a great delusion.

Lord Salisbury declared that he believed that the powers were thoroughly resolved to co-operate in everything concerning Turkey. How they would act was not for him to prophesy. He did not know what contingencies might arise, but no man would say that it was impossible for them to arise. They might become weary of the cry of suffering that goes up in their ears, and find other substitutes for that which does not fulfil the hopes entertained forty years ago. There was, therefore, nothing in the concert of the powers to console those who would perpetrate misgovernment, or to silence the voice of those who would impress on the Ottoman rulers the one burning necessity of the hour that they give the common blessing of good government to those under them. (Cheers.)

HARMONY OF THE POWERS.

In conclusion, Lord Salisbury said:—"Throughout the negotiations nothing was more strongly impressed upon my mind than the disposition of the Powers to act together, and their profound sense of the appalling danger any separation of their action might produce. Those among them who are popularly reputed to be restless have vied with the others in their anxiety to conduct the difficulty to a successful issue, and have conducted themselves in a manner that should better bring all the Powers into line, moved by the common ambition and noble aim of preserving the peace of Christendom. This is a very cheering symptom. I hope it may be the foundation of a system of action that will last for many years to come, and that in this sense of necessary co-operation, imposed by the dangers and exigencies of our time, we shall find a solution of some of the formidable problems that oppress us, and shall in due time be able to put a stop to that condition of armed peace which presses now on the industries of the world."

STOCKS IN NEW YORK.

Concessions in Prices General But Important In Only a Few Cases.

NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—The stock market to day, under the leadership of the Grangers, and notably Burlington, gave promise of restored strength which was not borne out to the finish. There was no special pressure of foreign selling, and in leading exchange circles the opinion was expressed that no gold would go out until Wednesday at the earliest. This stimulated fairly extensive covering in the general list. Rumors of sales of gold cables by a house recently prominent shippers of the precious metal caused fractional recessions in the general market. The closing was steady. As a result of the day's operations concessions in prices are general, but these are important only in a few cases. Closing prices:

SEE THE OTHER SIDE.
American politicians say the strangest things in the coolest way imaginable. It seems impossible for even able men among them to see both sides of any question in which the interests of the United States are involved. The Century Magazine for November contains what appears to us a remarkable instance of this peculiarity of the mental vision of American politicians. One of the articles in that very interesting and able periodical is "The Issues of 1896—A Republican View by Theodore Roosevelt," which contains the following passage:
The one failure of President Harrison's administration was in the Behring Sea case, and this failure was due to our over-anxiety for a peaceful settlement and consequent willingness to yield what we ought not to have yielded. Had we taken the stand which was advocated by the Secretary of the Navy, Mr. Tracy, and which had already been advocated by Mr. Phelps when minister to England under President Cleveland, there would have been no war; the seals would have been all alive, and there would have been no danger of the extinction of the greatest industry of the North Pacific. We ought never to have agreed to an arbitration; but we did, and the present administration has, of course, made matters worse. It is not a page of American diplomacy upon which we can look back with pride; but it offers a most wholesome lesson. It should teach us to beware, beyond all others, of the peace-at-any-price men. It should teach us to be exceedingly cautious about entering into any arbitration. Above all, it should teach us the lesson of courteous but resolute insistence on our rights, at no matter what cost.
Mr. Roosevelt wrote this when he knew perfectly well that the Arbitration, admitted on all hands to be a competent one, decided that the United States had in this Behring Sea dispute no rights at all to insist upon. Its claims to sovereignty over any part of the sea more than three miles from the shore and to property in the seals swimming in the high seas were easily proved to be unfounded. He knew that his country before that tribunal had not a leg to stand on. Its claims, as the New York Post very forcibly put it, "were laughed out of court." Yet, being perfectly well aware of all this, Mr. Theodore Roosevelt declares, most seriously and earnestly, that the United States "ought never to have agreed to an arbitration," that it should courteously but resolutely have insisted upon claims which, when examined by impartial men versed in international law, were shown to be altogether groundless. This is Mr. Roosevelt's idea of public morality. He, in effect, says when the Republic of which he is a citizen prefers a claim, whether it is sound or unsound, equitable or inequitable, legal or illegal, it is the duty of its Government to insist upon that claim to the verge of war or beyond it, and to reject most firmly and decidedly all proposals for an amicable settlement. This is the ground he takes, and no other. He speaks of claims that could not be maintained by either law or the comity of nations as "rights," and accuses his Government of weakness in submitting those claims to arbitration. If a man in any private matter took this ground—If, after his case had been tried by a competent tribunal and decided against him; he complained of the decision without calling in question its soundness or the ability and integrity of the judges, he would be laughed at as a fool or set down as a knave. Yet this is precisely the position in which Mr. Roosevelt places himself with respect to the Behring Sea Award. He regrets that the United States did not hold out for "rights" which were without foundation, and that it did not continue to exercise a sovereignty which it did not possess. In short, he would have the United States in Behring Sea act the part of a pirate. This is certainly not a patriotic stand. He may have great zeal in the cause of his country, but it is not a zeal according to either knowledge or righteousness.

SOWING THE WIND.
It is gratifying to see that there are clear-headed men in the United States who see the mischievous, the demoralizing, tendency of the tall talk of fire-eaters like Lodge and Chandler and their imitators. The New York Post with a courage and ability that cannot be sufficiently admired, points out with the utmost clearness the pernicious tendency of the inflammatory speeches and articles of the advocates of war. It says:
In the first place, they try to destroy the influence of the last eighty years of international peace by preaching the barbarous doctrine that war is a noble and inspiring national occupation, no matter what its cause or aims; that a nation can be elevated by slaughtering great numbers of young men and laying waste vast tracts of country, and by practicing on an immense scale and for a considerable period the highwayman's doctrine that might makes right. In the next place, they make it difficult for the officers of the government to approach any international question in a spirit of legality or justice, by producing the impression that the public will consider any such spirit a sign of meanness and want of patriotism. In the third place, they degrade us and make us ridiculous in the eyes of the civilized world by opening every controversy with epithets and abuse, so as to make our diplomacy look like a row between a bartender and a lover of free drinks.
In other words, they powerfully reinforce the influences which are to-day tending to barbarize the United States, and against which good men and women are everywhere fighting, one might say for their lives. For example, we do not believe there is a single civilized country but our own to-day, in spite of the great armaments of Europe, in which public men like Lodge, and Ware, and Groot, and Chandler would get up and publicly advocate war as a profitable and useful undertaking, in the absence of any distinct quarrel with anybody. There are in the Old World great pride in war and respect for military virtues, but every one who speaks of war publicly speaks of it with horror as a dreadful necessity, and recognizes its savagery. Even the commanders of all the great armies profess to-day to be working might and main for peace. It is only in the United States that we can find statesmen clamoring for war as a sort of commercial venture and as a good means of teaching patriotism to the young.
The truth and the reasonableness of what the Post says cannot be denied by any but short-sighted men who are ready to sacrifice the interests of the country to their own private and petty ambitions. The seed which the American jingoes are sowing so industriously is, according to the Post, already producing fruit the reverse of wholesome.
"The effect of all this on our public life," it continues, "is very visible. The young men who go into it, far from modeling themselves on Webster, or Clay, or Marcy, or Seward, or Everett, or Adams, say nothing of the founders of the republic, far from trying to speak with the voice of any of these eminent men on international law, or on currency, or exchange, or trade, or commerce, or trying to become trustees of the nation on any of these questions, are taking up the role of international swash-bucklers, as the true way to political promotion, and 'holler' for more ships, and hurl defiance to the four corners of the earth. It is a melancholy fact that there is to-day not a single man in public life who is listened to with respect or confidence on any of these topics. Daniel Webster's place in the Senate is filled by a man who sought to discriminate against the goods of a foreign nation in order to make it change its standard of value, and a pupil of his has urged us to avoid arbitration as a means of settling international difficulties. In fact, the kind of instruction our leading men are pouring out on a much troubled people would, if effective, carry us back before long to the condition of the barbarous tribes, whose only peaceful occupation was raising corn and bacon to feed the fighting men. That the America of Washington and Franklin and Jefferson should come to this in a century shows the absurdity of political prophecy."
We are glad to see that the country against which all the tall talk is directed takes very little notice of it, and that its press does not reply to the offensive charges and challenges, that are being continually made, defiantly. It leaves the sensible Americans to rebuke their senseless fellow-citizens. This they are doing with, we have no doubt, great effect. The number and influence of the fire-eaters are not to be judged by the noise they make. There is in the United States a vast body of quiet, sensible and well-intentioned men who pay but little attention to the boastful harangues of the tall-twisters. They know pretty well what it means and value it accordingly.

THE ANTI-TAX MEN.
The deluded men in the Quebec township of Lowe must be made to know that they cannot be permitted to refuse to fulfil their obligations as citizens with impunity. They participate in the advantages which Government confers on the people of Canada and there is no reason why they should be exempted from bearing their share of the public burdens. The Government protects their lives and their property and extends to them many other advantages. This cannot be done without money. A government has no money of its own. It has not a single cent except what the people place in its hands. The Government has been established and is maintained for the good of all, and it is only fair that all should be required to contribute to its support.
A good many besides the settlers in Lowe township seem to imagine that the Government is rich, that it has no end of money, that it takes taxes from the people without giving anything in return, and consequently that there is no harm in refraining from the payment of taxes or in taking advantage of the Government whenever they get the chance. This is a foolish as well as a mischievous notion and one that has led many a poor misguided fellow into trouble. The truth is men generally get more from Government for the money they contribute to the treasury than for any other part of their expenditure. The advantages arising from settled and efficient government are priceless. Without it we would be in the condition of savages. If a man thinks government exacting it would be worth his while to go to work and count up all that government is every day and every hour doing for him, and we are much mistaken if he does not come to the conclusion that he pays very little money for a great deal of service, and that, too, service of the most valuable kind, that government alone can render.

"SOMETHING FAR BETTER."
The re-appearance of the Keely motor in the field of journalism has moved the New York Commercial Advertiser to deprecate ridicule and scepticism with respect to the newly discovered force—or whatever it may be—by reminding its readers of the wonderful things that science, as applied to the useful arts, has done in their own day; and then goes on to say:
It is in the presence of these facts that one should read the information that Mr. John Jacob Astor has recently become so deeply interested in the world-famous "Keely motor" as to have offered to purchase a large share of its stock and to have expressed a willingness to advance all the money needed for the ultimate development of the new force that for twenty years has been struggling for birth in the matrix of the Keely machinery. A great electrician, the inventor of a practicable electric storage battery, in the interest of Mr. Astor, is said to have so far endorsed the "motor," after a prolonged study of its principles, as to declare that "There's no use in our devoting any more time to electricity. Here's something far better."
It has been the custom for nearly a quarter of a century to treat Mr. Keely as a happy medium between a knave and a fool, and to make just such jests about his "etheric vibrations" and "harmonic processes" as we can imagine the satirical apprentices of the fourteenth century cracking over the alleged "discovery" by one Roger Bacon of a powder that could blow up a house. But it is noticeable that all through this measureless torrent of abuse and ridicule the earnestness of the man no less than the startling character of some of his achievements, has riveted to him friends who have proved their faith in him by their works. Dreamer the man may be; but so dreamt Lavoisier before his discovery of Neptune went into history as a fact.

LIVING IN BARN
Is solid comfort, compared to our houses before the furnace fires are lighted.
The discomfort of sitting in an unheated room is bad enough, but the cold that follows is ten times worse. To sit shivering all day with the feet cold—to sit shivering in an office—or in a draughty lecture or amusement hall, is often equivalent to a winter's sickness.
In the midst of these dangers, if you have in your pocket a bottle of "77," an occasional dose will prevent your taking cold.
"77" cures Colds, Grippe, Influenza, Catarrh, Pains and Soreness in the Head and Chest, Cough, Sore Throat, General Prostration and Fever.
"77" will "break up" a stubborn cold that threatens to "hang on" all winter. Be sure to get

A GIVE AWAY
We had intended giving prizes in gold coin, open only to those who purchased goods at our store between now and December 31st, but we have, however, been so well patronized by the general public—and our new Men's Furnishing and Shirt Making venture as well as our low prices in Tailoring have been so well received—that we feel we can afford to be generous, so we make the following offer:
Everyone of either sex above the age of 16 will, within a few days, be supplied at our store with tickets on which they may register the length of time they think it will take a candle, which will be on exhibition at our store, to burn itself out. Candle to be lighted on January 2nd, 1896, and the one guessing nearest the time to receive, regardless of whether they purchase a cent's worth of goods or not,
$20.00 IN GOLD COIN.
REMEMBER—We don't ask you to buy before we allow you to guess. All you are required to do is to call in and register your guess, and if you are nearest to the length of time the candle burns, you will get your money. Is it worth guessing for?

FALL SALE.
TAKE TIME BY THE FORELOCK.
We have concluded that the right time to sell goods is when people need them, and anyone can sell if they sell cheap enough, which we are going to do.
There was very little rain in August, less in September, and next to none in October—been saving it all up for dripping November. We are overstocked in rain coats, expecting to have sold a usual large quantity in October, but did not, so we have decided to sell them now and at prices that will confound all other prices that rain coats have ever been sold for.
Our jacket season has been a success, we have only sixty-one left, so we will sell them at cost, which we can afford to do, having made our profit early in the season, being determined that not one shall be left over for next season.
We have a few FUR CAPES left—Greenland Seal and other furs—and notwithstanding the great advance in price of furs we shall reduce them likewise. We have also decided to reduce our whole stock, especially in Dress Goods, Jackets, Mackintoshes and Furs.
ANY HONEST MERCHANT desires to sell goods without a profit, and as a rule he does not do it, but there are times when it seems profitable to sell without profit, and this is one of them. We have an object in view, we want to see new faces, and we want to show the difference between CHEAP GOODS and good serviceable goods at Cheap Prices.

THE CITY.

THE steamship Umatilla arrived from San Francisco about 12 o'clock last night.

HARRY CALDER, last heard from in this city eight years ago, is urged to communicate at once with his brother, William Calder, of 52 Esther street, Toronto.

EVANGELISTS McClure and Monypenny are this week conducting special services at Gospel hall. Both are interesting and magnetic speakers and the services are apparently producing excellent results.

REV. S. WILKINSON, of Nanaimo, conducted special missionary services in the Victoria West Methodist church on Sunday last, exchanging pulpits with Rev. J. F. Hicks. The congregations and the collections were gratifyingly large.

THE standard temperance drama, "Ten Nights in a Barroom," is to be presented in Sample's hall, Victoria West, to-night and to-morrow evening by the Victoria West Amateur Dramatic Society, the performances being under the auspices of Victoria West lodge, No. 29, of the I.O.G.T.

A LECTURE was given last night before a good attendance of the Victoria Law Students' Association by Mr. A. L. Belyea. His subject was "Origin and Jurisdiction of the Courts of B. C." The lecture was an interesting and instructive one, and was listened to with great attention.

JOSEPH PYATT, the painter arrested several days ago on suspicion of theft, was yesterday committed to trial on the strength of a chain of circumstantial evidence that the police had accumulated about him. His friend had money, he had no record according to his own statement; he knew where his friend kept his money, $85 of which was stolen; Pyatt next day spent money freely, nor could he give any satisfactory explanation of where it came from.

TO-MORROW and Thursday evenings Miss Lillian Lewis will present her great dramatic spectacle "Cleopatra" at the Victoria theatre. Her conception of the Egyptian eunuch is said to be masterly, each act being led up to with increased effect to the grand climax. The picturesque surroundings, the voluptuousness of costume and the fascinating Orientalism which the host of lovely women attendants lend to the scene are accessory factors of value. The company carries the scenery for the production complete, not one local piece being used. The barefoot ballet is said to have made an enormous sensation. On Thursday afternoon (Thanksgiving Day) a matinee will be given, seats for which can be reserved at Jamieson's up to 1 o'clock on Thursday.

THE trouble that has been brewing for upwards of a month past among the employees on the off-shore construction work at Beaver lake, in connection with the character of the meals served at the contractors' boarding house, culminated yesterday morning in a declaration of strike. Such action was threatened a week or ten days ago, when five of the men were paid off; yesterday the contractors disposed of the strike in short order by discharging the cook. He was escorted out of camp in triumph by the entire working brigade, to the music of pots, pans and tin horns, and white winged peace immediately afterwards settled down upon the camp. The men pay $5 per week for their board, out of average wages of $2.25 per day, and their contention is that for $5 per week they should get the fat of the land.

THE officers of the R.M.S. Warrimoo, which sailed for Australia yesterday, regard as non-sensical the complaint filed with the U.S. Secretary of the Navy by several of their Boston passengers on the last trip in regard to the action of the U.S.S. Bennington at Honolulu. It was stated in this complaint that the Commander of the Bennington had jeopardized the lives of all on board the Warrimoo by circling several times around her and finally casting anchor only a short cable length to windward of her—the Bennington having cholera on board. The officers of the Warrimoo deny that the Bennington at any time came within five hundred yards of the Canadian liner; they say further, that she had one case of smallpox but no cholera on board, and that all talk of her jeopardizing the safety of the Warrimoo's passengers is worse than utter nonsense.

A PARTY from the James Bay Athletic Association, consisting of Messrs. Jackson, Aden, Bailey and Wolfenden, went out to Albert Head on Sunday to make another search for the equipment of the late Fred Mallandaine. They were successful in finding in the sand, just about where the boat was launched, the pair of rowlocks, still tied together. The sail was found a few days ago not far from the San Pedro wreck. From all indications, it is now believed that Mallandaine had launched his boat ready for the start and left it secure as he thought while he went for his outfit, but that while he was getting this a short distance away the tide took the boat off, and hastily stripping of his top clothing he plunged in after it, only to become so numbed by the cold water that he was helpless after climbing into the boat. The oars and the valuable shot gun and rifle, as well as his clothes, are still missing, but possibly have been found by Indians.

CHIEF of Police Sheppard is in receipt of the following letter from Mrs. J. Sutherland, of 227 Third street, Memphis, Tenn., which is published in the hope that it may reach the eyes of the long-missing relative: "Is there anyone in your city or vicinity by the name of George A. Potamier. He is my son-in-law and he has mysteriously disappeared. When last heard from he was in Butte City, Mont., on a stock farm. That was in July one year ago, making it about sixteen months since we have heard from him. I think he went either to Victoria or Vancouver as I can find no trace of him in Washington, Oregon or Idaho. I think very likely he has been murdered up there. He was five feet nine inches in height, with large brown eyes, black hair (worn pompadour), dark complexion and smooth face; he was somewhat round shouldered, but very good-looking and intelligent. He was by birth a Frenchman, and was very quick in all his actions. When he went West to look for business he was thirty years of age and weighed about 160 pounds. Should anyone inform you of his address I will gladly forward $50 reward."

REV. Father Leterme officiated Sunday morning at the funeral of the late Charles Hunter, of Vancouver, whose interment took place at Ross Bay cemetery. The Odd Fellows, of whose order the deceased was a prominent member, had charge of the funeral arrangements.

THE funeral of the late Charles Hunter took place on Sunday morning from Odd Fellows hall. At St. Andrew's Roman Catholic Cathedral Rev. Father Leterme officiated. The pallbearers were Messrs. A. Sherrett, W. H. Handley, G. Blair, S. W. Edwards, Thos. Tubman and F. Billingsley.

REV. C. ENSOR SHARP yesterday morning united in marriage in St. Paul's church, Esquimalt, Mr. Hugh Logan, of the office of Robert Ward & Co., and Miss Susan Ann Henwood, eldest daughter of Mr. Isaac Henwood. The young couple after the wedding left on the Sound steamer on a honeymoon tour.

As will be seen in the advertising columns the "Islander Gold Quartz Mining and Milling Co., Ltd.," offers a portion of its shares to the public on what appears to be an excellent plan. The trustees of this company are Captain Jno. Irving, M.P.P., Wm. Munis and W. G. Mackenzie, with Thos. G. Prosser, secretary. The ore taken from this mine is very similar in character to the Le Roi mine of Trail Creek. In fact it would require an expert indeed to distinguish a difference. The promoters hope and believe it will be an Albion Le Roi.

THE regular quarterly visit to Darcy Island lazaretto was made yesterday in the steamer Alert, Doctors Brown and Cox, of H.M.S. Royal Arthur, being among the party. They were surprised to see the amount of work that the lepers had accomplished in cultivating a vegetable garden for their own use, and expressed themselves as highly pleased with the excellent manner in which the unfortunate lepers are provided for. Speaking from a large experience of leprosy in Oriental countries, both doctors considered that the lazaretto on Darcy Island is superior to anything they had seen. No deaths have occurred since the last visit, although one Chinaman is now in the last stages of the disease and will not live long.

A STRIKINGLY pretty trophy, in silver and crystal, attracted a good deal of attention in E. A. Morris's window Saturday and yesterday, standing out conspicuously even amongst the handsome surroundings. The inscription told that it was the cup presented by Hiram Walker & Sons, of Walkerville, for competition at the last Dominion Rifle Association meeting at Ottawa, and there won by Gunner Henry C. Chamberlain, of New Westminster, one of the British Columbia team. The trophy was not ready at the time, and has just been sent on. It was offered as the one and only individual prize in the Walker match for battalion teams, and won with the splendid score of 96 out of 105.

FUN ON THE RANGE.

How the Riflemen of the Local Army and Navy Propose to Spend the Holiday.

THE inaugural prize competition of the Garrison Artillery Rifle Association will be held on Thanksgiving day, at the Clover Point range, and the programme and prize lists are sufficient to warrant the expectation that the affair will prove a decidedly attractive one, and will draw to the range all those who are in the slightest degree interested in the sport. The matches will be open to all members of the B.C.G.A., and to the Royal Marine Artillery and the Navy as well; and to make the competition generally interesting, those participating will be divided into three classes according to their reputation as marksmen or their record at the recent class firing.

There will be four events—one at 200 yards, one at 500, and one at 600 yards, with seven shots in each case, and one for the aggregate of the three ranges. In every event there will be a long series of prizes offered for each class of marksmen, these prizes having been contributed by the business men of the city in prompt and hearty response to a call from the committee having the matter in charge. To reward faithful service at the targets there will be four prizes for the marksmen, to be awarded at the close of the day by the vote of the riflemen.

As there are not sufficient Martini or even long Sniders available, many of the competitors will have to rely upon the short Sniders with which the B.C.B.G.A. are armed, and to put all on an equality the superior weapons will be required to allow points to the inferior. Thus the Martini will give the short Snider seven points at each range, and the long Snider three points; while the latter will give the short Snider four points. Uniform will not be required for the shooting, which is to commence at 10 a.m., and will be carried on irrespective of the weather. The prizes will be distributed at the drill hall in the evening.

PARTING HONORS.

Vice Regal Party Take Their Departure From Victoria.

The Governor-General and the Countess of Aberdeen took their departure from Victoria yesterday morning by the Dominion Government steamer Quadra. The scene at the custom house wharf was quite an imposing one. The men of the R.M.A. formed a guard of honor and looked remarkably well as they stood drawn up in line on the street overlooking the wharf. Admiral Stephenson, Lieut.-Col. Rawstone, Lieut.-Col. Prior, A.D.C., officers from the ships and the B.C.B.G.A. in uniform, and a number of prominent civilians were assembled to pay their respects to the Governor-General and the Countess of Aberdeen. The Governor-General, accompanied by the Admiral, inspected the guard of honor and expressed himself as greatly pleased with their fine appearance. Then the vice regal party, after shaking hands with many of the ladies and gentlemen on the wharf, boarded the steamer.

The Governor-General, Countess of Aberdeen, Lady Marjorie and Hon. Archie Gordon stood on the bridge as Capt. Walbran, who was in full uniform, pulled the lever to start the machinery. As the boat backed away from the wharf the guard of honor presented arms and the band of the Royal Arthur, which was stationed at the landing, played God Save the Queen. Three cheers for the Governor-General were given with a will, and then the band struck up "Auld Lang Syne" and "Home, Sweet Home."

Among those assembled to say good-bye, besides those already mentioned, were Chief Justice and Mrs. Davis, Hon. Senator Macdonald and Mrs. Macdonald, Mr. Justice Cressie, Bishop Perrin and Miss Perrin, Hon. Colonel Baker and Mrs. Baker, Hon. D. M. Ebert, Mr. Thomas Earle, M.P., Mayor and Mrs. Teague, Rev. Canon Beaulieu, Hon. Robert Beaven, Hon. D. W. Higgins, Col. Peters, D.A.G., Sir John Reid, Hon. J. S. Helmcken and ladies of the Women's Council. The Countess of Aberdeen was presented with a bouquet by the little daughter of the Chief Justice. As she stood on the bridge the Countess secured several shots with her kodak at the scene on shore.

The Governor-General and the Countess of Aberdeen attended the St. Andrew's Society ball at Vancouver last night.

SHIPS AND SHIPPING.

R. M. S. "Warrimoo" Departs Deeply Laden—Two Sailing Vessels Arrive in Esquimalt.

It was 4 o'clock yesterday morning when the steamship Warrimoo left here for Honolulu en route to Sydney, N.S.W., being about two days late in starting on the voyage. She had a full load of freight and her passenger list was up almost to the full limit of her accommodation. About 1,000 bales of shingles and 100 tons of lime had to be left behind, as the vessel was unable to carry all the cargo that was offered. The freight which she took from here consisted of 1,650 cases of salmon for Sydney, and 75 sacks of potatoes and 536 sacks of flour for Honolulu, and 47 boxes of frozen salmon and 1 box of frozen halibut. That from Vancouver, amounting in all to close on 1,600 tons, included 5 carloads of cold storage machinery for Sydney, 500 bales of broom corn, 200 bundles broom handles, 6,000 sacks flour, 4,000 sacks bran and feed, 1,200 sacks oats and barley, 400 cases of whiskey, 200 cases Eastern Canadian apples, 500 cases of beer and a large quantity of general freight. The steamer's saloon passengers were as follows: Miss Cumming, Miss A. Cumming, George Watt, Mr. and Mrs. Balmer, Mr. Bowker, Mrs. J. A. Ramsay, Mr. and Mrs. Lillie, Mrs. A. Marlock, Mr. Ramsay, R. A. Ramsay, Geo. Tyler, Mr. Lingham, W. A. Lingham, Mrs. Lindsey Cooper, Mrs. Langtree, Miss McCluskie, H. Frieslander, Mrs. Bird, Miss Robert, Mrs. Shearer, Mr. and Miss Bell, Mr. and Mrs. Ahearn and family, Miss Burns, E. U. G. Todd, Mr. D. Gershehl, A. H. Taylor, J. J. Hair, Mrs. Bell and family and two children. Besides these the ship carried 60 second-class passengers.

The Norwegian bark Crown Prince, Capt. Olsen, 84 days from Rio Janeiro, sailed into Esquimalt yesterday morning. She is bound for the Hastings mill to load lumber for the United Kingdom and will proceed to her destination as soon as the tug Lorne returns from the Cape after towing the collier Glory of the Seas to sea. The Lorne yesterday towed the coal hulk Robert Kerr from Vancouver to Departure Bay; the latter will not dock for about six weeks yet. Capt. Olsen reports an uneventful passage, having experienced no very disagreeable weather en route.

Captain Walker, who ran the Occidental and Oriental steamship Belgic ashore at Suno-saki last September, has been relieved of his command. The Belgic is owned by the White Star Company and that corporation has rarely, it is said, been known to forgive one of its employees for running a vessel ashore. While the Belgic lay on the sands at Suno-saki the company, it is stated, was obliged to wait for several days before it received word from Captain Walker concerning the fate of the ship.

The steamship Danubius, Capt. Meyers, sailed for the Fraser river yesterday evening where she will discharge the remainder of her Northern cargo of salmon. When this is done she will proceed to Vancouver, and leaves for the North on Wednesday evening. She took considerable freight for Northern ports from Victoria, but only a small number of passengers.

Steamer Maude got back from the West coast on Sunday, bringing the following passengers: S. Rhey, W. E. Long, J. Johnson, T. Magnuson, T. Margotich, C. Barker and E. B. Hill. The steamer left for Comox yesterday morning for a load of coal.

On Sunday morning the tug Lorne brought into Esquimalt the bark City of York from sea. She came here in ballast from Callao in 40 days and is seeking a charter. She is commanded by Captain Jones.

Practical Hints to Members of the Victoria Rugby Football Club.

Grand Meeting of Wheelmen on Thanksgiving Day - Tug of War
Tournament Postponed

TO THE SPORTING EDITOR:—May I take advantage of your columns to give a few practical hints to the members of the Victoria Rugby Football Club. I am an old hand at the game and still take the liveliest interest in the home club, and I do not think a few words from me would be taken amiss.
The team this season is composed of nearly all new men, and they are, taken all round, a good hard-working lot, but they have still a few points to learn before they reach perfection.

To the forwards I would say that they must practise screwing the scrum. They are a light lot compared with most teams, and therefore must depend on their weight to carry the ball through. Keep the ball between your feet and screw round, and when the scrumming breaks, dribble, but do not kick hard; the ball is lost to you as soon as it gets more than two yards away from you. Do not attempt to pick the ball up unless the play is very open, as a forward is seldom in a position to make either a good run or a good pass. Listen to the advice of your halves, and when they cry "right," "left," "let it out," etc., accordingly. Keep your eyes on the ball and do not push blindly, and as soon as the ball is out of the scrumming break up and follow on as quickly as possible (except when heeling out, when the scrumming should be held until the half gives the word). The worst fault I notice in the present forward pack is that they do not follow up quickly enough. When one of the backs takes a long kick they all wait to see where the ball is going to drop before charging. This is a most waste of time and loses all the advantage gained by a long kick. A forward should always be "on the ball."

My advice to the half-backs is, feed your three quarters, except of course when close to your own goal, when the ball should never be passed. A good half-back must be quick and tricky. He has to use all kinds of devices to confound his opponent. He seldom has a chance to get away, and therefore should not attempt to run, but hand the ball back to the three-quarters, who have a clearer field. He must keep his forwards posted all the time and dribble when he sees a chance. A good dribble always gains ground.

To the three quarters let me say: Don't be greedy and don't run back. Go straight ahead if you only gain a foot. If you are running with the ball and you have only one man to pass before reaching the goal line, don't try to pass him but give the ball to the man who is backing you up and has nobody at all to pass. Don't hang on to the ball too long. A three-quarter when running draws the opposing side on to him, and having done so he should at once pass the ball to his partner, who in turn should do the same thing. There is much more ground gained by quick and steady passing than by trying to make a long run. Three quarters should also pay great attention to kicking. A long kick into touch is so much ground gained.
Another point is to mark your opposing three quarters and do so continually; also keep in your place so that your own men always know where to find you.

The full back has the most responsible position in the field. He is there to collar and kick and not to run. The full back should never try to run past a man, but should always try to get his kick in before the opposing side reaches him. Beware of flying kicks. This is about the most dangerous thing a full back can do, as with an oval ball no one can tell in what direction a flying kick will send it.

To the team as a whole I say: Play a team game and don't play to the gallery.
The only way to bring a team to perfection is by good combination, which can only be brought about by continual practice.

The Victoria team go to Nanaimo next Thursday to meet their old friends the Hornets, and they will have a hard nut to crack; but we all wish them success, and if they are defeated I am sure they will not be disgraced.

THE NAVY AT DUNCAN.

A return Rugby match between the Navy and Cowichan is to be played at Duncan on Thanksgiving Day, the expectation being that a close and interesting struggle will be witnessed. The naval men were the winners in the former engagement.

THE WHEEL.

THE THANKSGIVING DAY MEETING.

Preparations are advancing rapidly for the Thanksgiving Day record meet at the Oak Bay track, when all the flyers will come together for the last time this season in an attempt to cut new records at all distances from a quarter to twenty-five miles. The last mentioned long race will not be a monotonous grind by any means, for the winner must have a majority of firsts in individual miles—it is not simply necessary for him to come in first at the finish.

The boys' race and the club invitation handicap are also expected to be keenly interesting. In the open events the now famous Vancouver flyer Lister is expected to try his speed with the Deemings, and as all races will this time be tandem paced, fast time may be counted upon with no loafing at any stage.

Mr. J. A. Fullerton, of Vancouver, has consented to act as starter, and the other officers have been so selected that the meeting will for smoothness and sportsmanlike direction stand favorable comparison with the last meet at the Oak Bay track.

Unfortunately, J. M. Campbell, of Spokane, cannot be here for this meet, though he has promised to be on hand for the Queen's Birthday races next year. He is at present riding against the world's stars on the national circuit in California, and according to advices just received had the honor last week of beating out the champion Eddie Bald, Otto Ziegler and a big field, winning a competition mile and a world's record in 1:48.

THE BEATRICE CLEAR.

Chief Justice Davie Declares the Schooner Entitled to Damages for False Arrest.

Sealer Shelby Is Condemned to Pay a Fine of a Hundred Pounds.

There were two important sealing decisions given yesterday by Chief Justice Davie, in the Admiralty court. One was the dismissing of the charge against the schooner Beatrice, and the other was fixing the penalty in the Shelby case as a fine instead of the forfeiture of the vessel.

The judgment of the Chief Justice delivered last week, condemning the Shelby, having allowed argument as to whether the penalty should be a fine or forfeiture, Mr.
H. Dallas Helmsken, Q.C., yesterday appeared for the crown, stated that the Commander-in-Chief did not wish to press for forfeiture, but believed justice would be satisfied with
the imposition of a fine.

Hon. C. E. Pooley, Q.C., who appeared for the crown, stated that the Commander-in-Chief did not wish to press for forfeiture,
but believed justice would be satisfied with
the imposition of a fine.

The Chief Justice was glad to hear that the prosecution represented by the Commander-in-Chief was of opinion that the case could be met with a fine. It seemed to the Court that this course would commend itself to one's reason. The vessel was condemned not for any direct violation of the statute, but because of the inference arising out of the act of 1893 that a vessel in prohibited waters with skins and implements aboard was engaged in sealing, unless a satisfactory explanation could be given for her being there. It was obvious that it would be unjust to make such an offence as this with as heavy a punishment as if the vessel were caught in a flagrant violation of the act. If a vessel were taken red-handed in the very act of sealing with guns and explosives nothing more could happen to her than to be condemned, and it was rather hard to go to this extreme in the present case. While thinking the amount mentioned by Mr. Helmsken was too small, the court believed that the case would be met by a fine of £100 and costs.

The Chief Justice gave judgment in the Beatrice case, dismissing the charge against her. He took the view that the arrest was not warranted, and even if the captain had no excuse for neglecting for two or three days to enter the skins in the official log, it was not right to make the owner of the vessel suffer the loss of his schooner on that account. So far, however, from considering the captain guilty of neglect he held him blameless. It was no fault of the schooner.
In conclusion the judgment states: "I am of opinion that the action for condemnation wholly fails. As in my judgment the charge upon which the vessel was arrested was of something for which arrest could not legally be made, no question of reasonable ground for the arrest arises, and as the ship was arrested when in pursuit of a legal and profitable employment, she is entitled to recover damages therefor. I therefore dismiss the action for condemnation with costs and direct a reference as to the damages to the master to which the ship is entitled for her illegal arrest and detention."

Hon. Mr. Pooley for the crown wished to know who was to pay the damages as the judgment did not state.

His Lordship replied that he had purposely refrained from expressing an opinion on that point because he considered it a matter of arrangement between the two governments.

Mr. Bodwell and Mr. Barnard appeared for the defence.

A VISTA OF FASHION.

STYLES IN DRESS EXPRESSED IN RECENT IMPORTATIONS.

Round Waists, Full Sleeves and Flaring Skirts Remain in Favor—Velvet Bodices Are Very Popular—Wool and Velvet a Stylish Combination—Imported Models.

The autumnal fashions for 1895 absorb a liberal supply of pocket money, for the popularity of the full skirt wanes not at all, and the silken lining remains a thing to be desired. Then, too, bodices are embellished with embroideries, jet, sequins, colored silk, lace or what you will. Ribbed and shaded velvets traced with jet form lovely bodices to plain cloth skirts of elaborate simplicity, and the simple tweed gown looks its best when in light colors, lined with moire. Black hats and black feathers hold the place of honor at the present date. The feathers are numerous and of the very finest quality.

The revival of Marie Antoinette styles includes the elbow sleeve in a large puff, finished with a ruffle of lace, for evening wear. The Marie Antoinette fichu is applied on both silk and woolen gowns. Round waists continue popular. Velvet bodices are much worn with black skirts. Indeed the fashion of extra waists has proved such a convenience as well as economy that it promises to prevail for a long time to come. The combination of wool and velvet is a conspicuous one this season, and a special prestige is given not only to velvet bodices, but velvet wraps and coats.

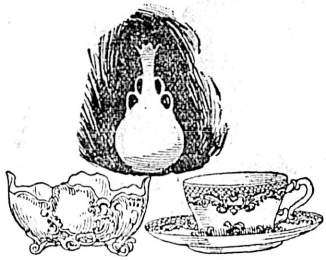

Lightweight cloths with smooth surface drape easily and are consequently in favor for street wear, as are soft woolen suitings in plaids; also silk and wool mixtures in two colors. All black, in wool, silk, crepon or velvet, has a special vogue given it this season.

Numbered with popular dress trimmings are velvet ribbons in various

NOVELTIES IN CHINA.

Beautiful Designs in White Wares That Delight the Decorators of China.

The tidal wave of pride and joy is rising high in the hearts of the china decorators. Never before has the use of finely decorated ware been so thoroughly appreciated as today. Never before has it so largely usurped the place of silver, because of its warmth of tone and its adaptability to color schemes, and—this is the acme of the china decorator's joy—never before have the manufacturers of fine china, both in our own potteries and in those of Europe, given so much attention to the production of beautiful designs in delicate white ware, and to unique articles, the manufacture of which in china is a new departure.

These new and beautiful shapes are shown in the French, Saxon, Bavarian and English wares, and let us gladly add, American wares as well. One of the new and artistic shapes in the French ware is shown in a salad dish. The relief work upon this gives rich effects in gilding, and the shape is exceedingly artistic. Photograph frames, candlesticks and the like afford an opportunity for original treatment, as they are comparatively new departures in the potter's realm and consequently have not so often been subject to the painter's fancy.

The Bavarian ware, while less expensive, is also very beautiful. The relief work upon this gives rich effects in gilding, and the shape is exceedingly artistic. Photograph frames, candlesticks and the like afford an opportunity for original treatment, as they are comparatively new departures in the potter's realm and consequently have not so often been subject to the painter's fancy.

quality and reliable. The cup and saucer affords a good example of this ware and of the opportunity for obtaining the rich effects with the outlay of but little skill. Tea bells and thimbles are others of the new devices for which china and porcelain have recently been utilized, and these, too, afford new scope upon a small scale for the ingenuity of the china painter. A dainty china tea bell, decorated with a dancing chime of bells mingled with holly or mistletoe, or with sprays of bell shaped flowers, such as lilies of the valley upon a tinted ground, makes an exquisite little gift, or a tempting article for sale. Further novelties include whisk broom holders, clothes, nail and hair brushes and hanging matchsafes. These show the popular renaissance style of ornamentation in relief, according to The Queen of Fashion and authority also for the following:

The fine line of American goods which is shown beside the imported ware proves that our American potteries are successfully competing with the potteries of the old country. Our Lotns were exceeded by few, if any, of the French chinias and deserves to be widely known by decorators of our own country. It is of recent manufacture, but is rapidly winning its way because of its beauty both in shape and in quality of ware. The ware has a translucent delicacy, and its shapes are artistic. Eggshell Belleek is another example of the exquisite delicacy of the wares put forth by our potteries today. This is a favorite ware to be, as it can be had in a great variety of beautiful shapes.

Household Brevities.

An old housekeeper says the way to exterminate red ants in a cupboard is to place in it an earthen dish containing a pint of tar, on which two quarts of hot water has been poured.

Lemons will keep for over a month or longer in winter by simply immersing them in cold water. Change the water twice a week.

To prevent silverware turning black lay a lump of camphor gum away with it.

To preserve wooden pails from shrinking paint with glycerin.

When grease is spilled on the floor or table, pour cold water on it at once, as this will cool it quickly and prevent it from soaking into the boards.

If you will dip your broom in clean, hot suds once a week, then shake it until it is almost dry, then hang it up or stand it with the handle down, it will last twice as long as it would without this operation.

widths, several of which may be used on the same gown. Jet trimmings are in high favor, as are black laces. Silk net and chiffon are employed to drape over bodices designed for house wear, and for the making of full, soft dress fronts, which are still in fashion.

Numbered with recent importations that serve their decorative duty well is a serge dress fashioned with a short basqued bodice, outlined with black and gold braid. The vest and frills are made of finely kilted cream colored silk. A second model worthy of description is a dress made in face cloth which bears a collar cut into points and elaborately braided in fine braid. The waistband is of satin and the vest of finely spotted chiffon, this being arranged with a frilled cravat. Another pleasing importation is a serge dress, with Eton jacket, trimmed with innumerable little buttons, and an inner vest of white cloth edged with gimp and showing a soft shirt of tuckered muslin. At the neck is a bow of white silk.

By the way, bows, instead of being tied at the back round our necks, are now tied at the front. In such subtle distinctions do we seek that novelty which, alas, is a phantom for ever pursued and never retained. However, just to detail these bows, which are made in one with a stiff collar band. This is merely supplied with long ends, which cross at the back and tie in the front, either in a large bow or a small one, according to individual fancy. They are made either in cotton or in silk, pique and moire perhaps being the favorite fabrics, and they undoubtedly look their best in white, when they are by no means economical, especially if the moire be chosen instead of the pique.

For once more occupies an important place. Not only is it to be worn as a trimming for walking costumes around the skirt and in bands upon the sleeves, but it will also be profusely used upon ball dresses intermixed with laces and jewels.

ALICE VARNUM.

How to Make White Cake.

Beat 1½ cupsful of sugar and a scant half cupful of butter to a cream, one-half cupful of milk and 2 full cups of flour, into which 2 level teaspoonfuls of baking powder have been sifted. Lastly, add the whites of 4 eggs, whipped to a stiff froth. Flavor with lemon. This may be baked in layers and spread with jelly, making a very nice jelly cake, when this is preferred, or it may be baked in little tins and frosted.

Sealskin coats are to be seen in the shops, with big sleeves and short, full, rounded basque.

Emperor William's wardrobe is still a subject of much wonder and comment in the foreign press. It is said that he has in all 1,000 suits of clothes, twelve dozen of every item of underclothing, and fifty dozen handkerchiefs, and, except his uniform, he seldom wears the same thing twice.

Zola says that the one thing of which he is really proud is that for twenty years he has stuck to one theory and carried his argument in support of that theory to a legitimate conclusion. This theory is that, if marriages were contracted on a purely rational basis instead of a sentimental one, the race would gradually become giants in intellect and brain.

BOARD OF ALDERMEN.

Encouragement for Direct Connection With U. S. Telegraph Lines—Expounding Civic Finances.

A Clergyman to Be Prosecuted—New Claims for Damages—Sewerage Assessment Protest.

Mayor Teague was once more in his place when the council met for the regular weekly session last evening, and Ald. Wilson was the only member absent. The minutes of the four meetings held last week were read and adopted.

An invitation by Mayor Phelps of Seattle, to the Mayor and aldermen of Victoria, to attend at the grand ball to be given on Friday next, to the Admiral and officers of the U.S.S. Philadelphia, was the first communication read. It was accepted with thanks, though Ald. Hall observed that he had failed to see any councillor but himself at the grand balls here last week.

H. F. Helsterman, as attorney in fact for John Smeaton, wrote protesting against the assessments for sewer connections from lot 6, block 7, 496 52, and from lot 1,601 Government street. He considers them excessive, and says he will appeal to the courts if there is no reduction. Referred to the engineer and the sewerage committee to report.

Lindley Crease, on behalf of Chinese merchants, asked permission for the construction of a platform 20x20 feet, for the performance of certain religious ceremonies carried on once in three years, and during which certain candles will be lighted and paper burned. The celebration will be from the evening of Tuesday, 26th inst., to early in the following morning. Referred to the Mayor and Chief of Police.

Ensign Patterson presented the third quarterly report of the Salvation Army food and shelter home, where during that period 3,422 meals have been served, 1,338 beds occupied, and 123 cords of wood have been used for board and lodging. Some outside help has been given and through the labor bureau work has been found for twelve men. Received and filed.

F. J. Dawley applied for the admission into the old men's home of Geo. Good, 64 years old and for 26 years a resident of Victoria. Referred to home committee.

C. M. Tait preferred a claim for $50 for damages to his person and clothing through falling into an open ditch on Herald street on the 15th instant, and referred to officer Gilchrist and Dr. Ral for further information. Sent to street committee.

The sewerage committee reported on the sewer trap at the corner of Douglas and Yates street, which had been complained of. They state that the trouble was due to a misuse of the trap rather than to any defect in its design. Adopted.

J. C. M. Keith, architect, reported the result of an inspection he had made of the foundations of the electric light works. He had failed to find any sign of the settling reported; but found that the manner in which the engine was set has caused the entire weight and vibration at the fly wheel to be borne by certain wedges or strips which are being worked into the bricks. He had provided for a concrete foundation in the specifications, but this had been changed into brick and cement by the corporation expert. Upon Ald. Williams explaining that Superintendent Hutchison says he can make the matter right without much trouble, it was referred to the electric light committee.

Maria Vigilius asked that one or two nasty mudholes opposite her property, 162 and 164 Pandora street, be fixed, as her tenants have threatened to leave otherwise. Referred to streets committee.

R. B. Wood wrote that he had had his fence on Jesse street moved by command of the corporation, to facilitate the laying of a sidewalk, and he presented a bill for $8. Letter filed. Ald. Humphrey stating that there had been no command, but that Mr. Wood's fence encroached on the street and they would not lay the sidewalk until it was removed.

J. H. Friend asked for a three-plank sidewalk on Andrew street to the crossing on Bridge. Referred to the streets committee.

William Nicholson, secretary of the Oaklands fire company, transmitted their thanks to the corporation for the fire protection afforded.

The sewerage committee reported against H. H. Macdonald's request that the city buy his moulds, now in the corporation sheds—on the ground that they are not wanted.

TELEGRAPHIC FACILITIES.
The special committee to whom the matter mentioned had been referred early in the year, and consisting of Ald. Williams, Macmillan and Cameron, reported as follows:

"VICTORIA, 18th Nov., 1895.

"GENTLEMEN—Having acted through the Victoria Board of Trade, thereby securing their aid and assistance in the matter of securing the permission of the Dominion government to lay a telegraphic cable to connect with the American lines on the south side of Juan de Fuca straits.

"The Dominion government have agreed to grant permission to any company undertaking the same. The obstruction to such a useful undertaking in the past has been the attitude of the Dominion government in refusing to grant all previous requests. Your committee desire to report that the field is now open, and would strongly recommend that every encouragement possible be given by the city council so as to induce a private company to give to our city direct telegraphic communication across Juan de Fuca straits so as to form a connection with the U. S. lines. The large sum of money spent by our people in telegraphic messages should be an inducement for the formation of a company to undertake this important work."

TO BE PROSECUTED.

ALD. WILLIAMS questioned the Mayor respecting the sidewalk and fence removed by Rev. Mr. E. Ison.

THE MAYOR replied that nothing had been done after the advice of the city barrister, already reported, that the city should not interfere, but leave the parties interested to fight the matter out.

ALD. WILLIAMS thought that in the meantime people who have to cross there should have a sidewalk.

ALD. MCLELLAN advocated laying a walk, at least across the sewer which is now such a nuisance there, and if it is disturbed then the persons responsible should be prosecuted.

ALD. MACMILLAN moved that the city solicitor be instructed to prosecute the person who removed the sidewalk. Agreed to.

WHERE THE MONEY GOES

ALD. CAMERON revived the suggestion made by Ald. Macmillan some months ago, that a statement be prepared for circulation before the election showing where the money goes—what proportion of the civic revenues is required for paying interest and sinking fund on debts, and how much is spent on each of the branches of administration. The motion of Ald. Macmillan was thereupon taken up, and it was decided that such a statement be prepared and first submitted to the council. This if approved of will form part of the annual report, which pamphlet Ald. Williams suggested would be more interesting if issued earlier.

The board adjourned at 9:15 p.m.

"CROSSED THE BAR."

Death of One of the Best Known Pacific Coast Pioneers at Seattle.

Who in these parts during the last thirty-seven years has not known Capt. Tom Wright? The genial old Captain passed over to the side of the great majority about 11 o'clock yesterday morning at Seattle. Capt. Wright, who came to this province in 1858 with his father, engaged in steamboating, and his experience in that line was a varied one. "Captain Tom," as he was familiarly known by old-timers on the Pacific Coast, was among the first to navigate a steamer to Hope and Yale. After operating in these waters for several years, in conjunction with his brothers, J. T. and George S. Wright, he built the Olympia, now the Princess Louise, and the Wilson G. Hunt, at present in the bone-yard.

These steamers were intended to run on the Sacramento river, but were afterwards brought to this province. Capt. Tom, after leaving the last mentioned steamer, became interested in and was captain of the first steamer that plied in the Upper Fraser in the season of 1863—the Enterprise—which ran between Soda Creek and the mouth of Quenelle, carrying freight at $80 per ton for sixty miles.

After 1863 Captain Wright became owner of a neat little steamer, Diana, which also plied in these waters and those of Puget Sound, and many is the story told of Captain Tom's hospitality. It was during his captaincy of the Diana that the expression, "Captain Tom's broadside," was first heard. The captain rendered very valuable service to the United States government during the time of his ownership of the Diana. He was always on hand when there was anything to be done.

In later years Capt. Tom became part owner and took charge of a boat that played an important part in the trade between the headwaters of the Sound and the city of Victoria. This vessel was the Eliza Anderson, which performed a very good semi-weekly service from this city to Olympia. This was in the days of old, when the Kingston, Sohome and Keale were not plying six times a week between Victoria and Sound ports. Capt. Wright was born on February 22, 1828, in the city of New York, and leaves three children, a boy and two girls, and a host of friends who will long remember him.

JAMES DOLPHING, committed for trial for breaking into Mollie Rosencrantz' house with intent to steal, elected yesterday to stand his trial at the assizes, which open to-day.

AN EVENING WITH "TRILBY."

Mr. A. M. Palmer's Company Thoroughly Please Victorians in Du Maurier's Famous Story.

It is doubtful if George du Maurier would recognize the Trilby that held the boards at the Victoria last evening—and yet Mr. Potter's dramatization is not unprofitable without many commendable features. True, the poetic charm of the book is lacking in the play and the characters that move so smoothly and naturally in the printed pages appear unfamiliar and disappointing when transported to the stage. But the heart interest of the world romance is there and the atmosphere of the Latin quarter is thoroughly apparent. To those who had read the book—and of course everybody had—the stage story seems only a cold and incomplete paraphrase of the principal scenes, a skeleton of the story divested of the flesh and blood that du Maurier's pen created for it. To these the explanation must be sufficient that Trilby was not written for the stage and that to dramatize the story is not an easy undertaking. The author of Trilby gave each of his readers a framework for the creation of ideals—here was the master touch—

PROSPECTUS.

The Islander Gold Quartz Mining and Milling Company, Limited Liability, has been organized for the purpose of taking over and working the Islander Mineral Claim, situated on a branch of Granite Creek, Alberni District, Vancouver Island, B. C., and for the purpose of purchasing and working such other mineral claims as the company may determine.

The Islander mineral claim is within two and a-half miles of the navigable waters of Alberni Canal. It is outside the land grant of the E. & N. Railway Company. A good trail is built direct to the mine. There can thus be no dispute as to title, and transportation to and from the mine will be at low rates.

Returns from assays made of the surface ore have varied from $2 to $15 per ton in gold and copper. The character of the ore is similar to those produced by the Le Roi and other mines at Trail Creek in West Kootenay. It is believed that as depth is attained the value of the ore will greatly increase, as was the case with the Trail Creek ore.

Assays have been made by Price, of San Francisco; Tacoma Smelting and Refining Co., Tacoma; W. Fellow-Harvey, Vancouver; Government Assay Office, Victoria.

Only surface work has, so far, been done on the claim, which is from four to eight feet in width. It is proposed to sink shafts and otherwise precept the mine, so as to thoroughly prove its extent and value.

In the event of a sale of the mine being made, the full amount subscribed by shareholders of B and C stock will first be returned to them, and the remaining profit divided among all the shares.

All further particulars may be learned and samples of ore seen at the office of the Secretary, No. 18 Broad street.

MEMORANDUM OF ASSOCIATION.

WE, John Irving, of the City of Victoria, in the Province of British Columbia, master mariner, William Munnies, of the same place, commission merchant, and William G. Mackenzie, of the same place, commission merchant, do hereby certify (in duplicate) that we desire to form, under the provisions of the "Companies" Act, 1878 (Provincial), being Part II. of Chap. 21 of the "Consolidated Acts, 1888," and amending Acts, a company as hereinafter mentioned:

(1) The corporate name of the company shall be "The Islander Gold Quartz Mining and Milling Company, Limited Liability."

(2) The objects for which the company is established are as follows:

(a) To purchase the Islander mineral claim situated on Granite Creek, Alberni District, Vancouver Island, British Columbia, from the registered owners thereof, for sixty thousand dollars ($60,000) paid up shares of the capital stock of the company, to be called issue A, and to prospect, explore, work, develop and turn to account the said mineral claim.

(b) To purchase, take on lease, or otherwise acquire and prospect, explore, work, exercise, develop and turn to account any mines, mineraliferous land, mining rights, prospectors' or other claims in British Columbia.

(c) To purchase, take on lease, exchange, hire, or otherwise acquire any real or personal property, and any rights or privileges which the company may think necessary for the purpose of its business.

(d) To raise, crush, win, get, quarry, smelt, calcine, refine, dress, amalgamate, manipulate, and prepare for market ore, metal and minerals of all kinds, whether the property of the company or not, in British Columbia, and to carry on any metallurgical operations which may seem conducive to the company's objects or any of them, or which may seem capable of being usefully or profitably carried on in connection with the other business of the company, and to sell, dispose of, and deal in any ore, metal and mineral substances, either in a manufactured state or otherwise, and any materials or substances resulting from or to be obtained in the process of smelting, refining or manufacturing the same, and to do so free or in combination with other substances:

(e) To construct, carry out, maintain, improve, manage, work, control and superintend any trails, roadways, tramways, railways, reservoirs, watercourses, bridges, aqueducts, wharves, furnaces, sawmills, crushing works, hydraulic works, electrical works, factories, warehouses, ships, boats, and other works and conveniences which may seem directly or indirectly conducive to any of the objects of the company, and to contribute to, subsidize, or otherwise aid and take part in such operations.

(f) To mortgage the uncalled capital of the company subject to the provisions of the said Act.

(g) To sell, improve, manage, develop, lease, dispose of, turn to account or otherwise deal with all or any property of the company:

(h) To sell the property and the undertaking of the company or any part thereof, at such time or times, in such manner, on such terms and for such consideration as the company may think fit:

(i) To purchase or otherwise acquire or deal with any capital stock of the company whether fully paid up or not:

(j) To amalgamate with, or acquire the business and liabilities of any other company or companies having objects altogether or in part similar to this company:

(k) To sell and dispose of from time to time and one man's filling in of the sketches may not appeal to another's fancy. As a whole the play will stand alone, independent of the novel's fame, while the work of the Palmer company in it calls for nothing but commendation. The four curtain calls after the third act last evening were one and all richly deserved.

CHARLES HALL was knocked down by a Pandora street car at the corner of Trowace avenue and Government street last night just before six o'clock. The edge of the dash board struck Hall and he fell on the road, cutting a gash in his head. Dr. Morrison attended to the wound, which is not believed to be serious. The motorcar says he was ringing his bell and going slowly at the time, and put on the brakes as promptly as possible.
